March 2013

Same Name, Same Passion

Christine O. James and daughter, Christine Donker James from mid-island, share the same name and a passion for WIVH. They are pictured at the recently held Ag Fair in St. Croix

'Home Improvement' Theme At Ag Fair

St. Croix's annual Agricultural Fair was held February 16, 17 and 18, at the Rudolph Shulterbrand Agricultural Complex, Estate Lower Love, and WIVH was represented there. The emphasis of the station's display was "We're Here For Your Family."

"The 2013 VI Ag Fair was incredible," said Jon Bowman, WIVH operator. "We asked WIVH listeners to come visit our little West-Indian Styled home at the Fair and to let us know how God is using WIVH in their lives. We were amazed at how many testimonies we heard from people of many different walks in life. They told us what a blessing WIVH is to their spiritual walk."

Before the Ag Fair, listeners were asked to be in prayer for the WIVH team as they presented the work of the station to everyone passing by. "We believe God uses the "Power Tool" of Christian radio to minister daily to those who listen. We want this for each new listener, also."

"We witnessed people passing by the booth and as we introduced WIVH to them, we had the hope that they would continue to grow in the Lord while listening to the teaching programs of the station," said Tiffany Bowman. She said the team of workers were able to introduce WIVH to countless people.

Following the booth's "Tool" theme, the "Home Improvement Challenge" was offered to everyone as they were told that WIVH offers

Teen Interviewed About WIVH

Zyann Philip has listened to WIVH since she was a small child. Now, as a teenager, she is shown recording a testimony she hopes will encourage other children and teens to listen. "We praise God to see teenagers tuning in to WIVH," said Jon Bowman, WIVH operator.

What People Are Saying

Attendees at the recent Ag Fair were overheard talking about WIVH. "WIVH is on my radio 24 hours a day. I have listened since day one of the broadcasting," said Veron Bazil. Sherryann A. Wiltshire said she'd be at the next Shar-A-Thon. "I love WIVH!"

Sandra Edwards said that WIVH has great children's shows. Anaya Henry, 10, loves Odyssey and Diane G. John said, "My son, nine years old, loves WIVH...it is the only thing he lets us listen to!" Tameya Garvey loves the music on WIVH, Ernice and Charlene Gilbert said they are a WIVH loving couple and Hilda Morales says it's on in her home and car. She called it the best station. "I drive a lot and I always listen to WIVH," said Anne Williams.

"I listen to WIVH every day and I just signed my daughter up to start the WIVH Correspondence School," said Deidre White. "I'll take the challenge, I will start listening to WIVH today!" said, Kofi Brown.

tools that families need to become strong and secure. The challenge was to listen to WIVH at F. M. 89.9 for one month and see the difference and improvement in their life and home.

Volunteers, April Nesbitt, Christine Isaac and Leandro Diaz assisted at the booth.

WIVH Meets Listeners At Ag Fair

The WIVH crew met listeners at St. Croix's annual Ag Fair. They are Jon and Tiffany Bowman, Sage 10, River 8, Cove 4, and Meadow Bea, 2.

A WIVH listener, Bev Carr, brought along her sister, Sharron Piper, and a friend from St. Thomas, Anna Constantine. They left WIVH booth with information about the station and will be listening in the future.

A dad and his children were all smiles while visiting with the Bowman family. They left with WIVH program guides and information on how they can enroll in the WIVH Correspondence School. They are: Don Prime, of Estate Constitution, with Othnia, Aita and Oren.

Pictured is a family that stopped by the WIVH stand, Joseph and Verdline Lloyd, Naomi, 3, and Jeremiah, 5. They are from Estate Adventure Hill. They said that they love WIVH and listen always.

River Bowman is shown inviting a WIVH listener to place a bumper sticker on her car.

Meadow Bea and Cove Bowman encourage passersby to listen to WIVH-FM, and improve their household!
